"A Raisin in the Sun," written by Lorraine Hansberry, portrays the struggles of an average African American family in the 1950s. Mama (played by Shelly Greaves, 16) marvels over the receipt of a large sum of insurance money which could mean either financial salvation or personal ruin for the family, as daughter Ruth (Michaelin Thomas, 14) and grandson Travis (Devin Lopez) look on.

But it is God’s great promise to us that we shall not face these seasons
alone.”

Embracing the seasons

One of the things I enjoy tremendously about living in New England is the changing of the seasons. While the winters may be harsh – and this winter was no exception! – the bitter chill of January and February make us appreciate all the more those first early signs of spring.

From the first flowers sprouting from the earth to the buds blooming on the barren trees, spring is a visible reminder of God’s eternal promise and the hope and rebirth of the Easter season.

The changing of the seasons also brings to mind one of the Bible’s most beloved passages, Ecclesiastes 3:

*To every thing there is a season,
and a time to every purpose under heaven:
A time to be born, and a time to die;
a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;
A time to kill, and a time to heal;
a time to break down, and a time to build up;
A time to weep, and a time to laugh;
a time to mourn, and a time to dance;
A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together;
a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
A time to get, and a time to lose;
a time to keep, and a time to cast away;
A time to rend, and a time to sew;
a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;
A time to love, and a time to hate;
a time of war, and a time of peace.*

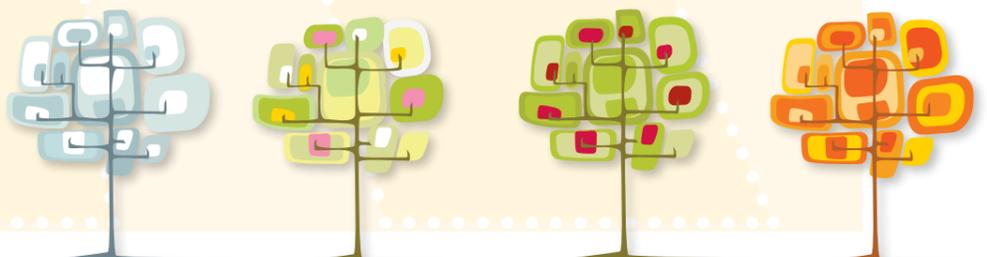

Each of us experiences these seasons in our lives. I was reminded of this earlier this year, when both of my parents went home to be with the Lord within a few weeks of one another. As this issue of The Christian Scholar illustrates, each of us encounters these seasons. Senior Chris Moy experienced a season of joy through an unforgettable learning opportunity (page 5). Nazarene Theological Seminary President Dr. David Busic experienced a season of worry over his wife’s cancer surgery (page 4). And alumna Christina Duncan (03, 07) has experienced seasons of depression brightened by her positive efforts to raise awareness of suicide prevention (page 5).

Yes, each of us must pass through both the joyful and sorrowful seasons of life. But it is God’s great promise to us that we shall not face these seasons alone. As we celebrate the joy of the Easter season, I hope you draw on God’s strength and embrace the seasons of your life, trusting that there is indeed “a time to every purpose under heaven.”

Blessings,

Corlis McGee

Biology professor Dr. Sultan Jenkins presents a lecture titled "C. elegans as a model for obesity research" as part of the John U. Free Seminar Series.

Physics and Engineering Department launches the John U. Free seminar series

Tomography, obesity and metabolites are just a few of the topics being discussed on campus this spring, as the Physics and Engineering Department launches the John U. Free Seminar Series – a free lecture series open to the entire campus community. Named in honor of longtime Physics and Engineering Professor John Free (64), the seminars include presentations by faculty as well as students in an effort to encourage collaboration and information sharing.

"This is really a platform where we can showcase our students' senior research presentations," said Dr. Pierre-Richard Cornely, associate professor in the Physics and Engineering Department. "It's also an opportunity to encourage our faculty to share their research work or interests with the ENC community."

Cornely, for example, kicked off the seminar series with his presentation titled "Tomography Applied to Earthquake Monitoring and Prediction."

"In the last 10 years, several earthquakes have occurred – most notably in Haiti, Chile and Japan – causing considerable disruption and damage," Cornely said. "These events have reignited scientific interest in the area of earthquake monitoring and prediction."

Cornely's presentation discussed the basics of tomography and its potential application to ionospheric modeling and seismic predictions. Other scheduled presentations included seminars on a new way to identify human metabolites, orbit determination of space objects and C. elegans as a model for obesity research.

Presentations are scheduled to continue through April 26, when the seminar series will conclude with a dinner for seniors.

NTS president speaks at Spring Revival

By Katie Smith (15)

Dr. David Busic recalled the first time God's sustaining grace was made personally visible to him.

It was the night before his wife, Kristi, was scheduled to have surgery for the removal of a cancerous tumor, and he was sitting at her bedside. Suddenly, an overwhelming feeling poured into the room.

"It was the first time that God's grace was so evident and clear to me," Busic said. "It felt like a gust of wind and I was comforted by it."

The surgery was successful, and Busic's wife is cancer free to this day.

The president of Nazarene Theological Seminary, Busic shared this and other personal stories recently, when he served as the principal speaker for 2013 Winter Revival. Held January 16-18, the much-anticipated annual worship series brought ENC students, faculty and staff together to connect through worship and fellowship.

Busic began the January 16 chapel service with a reference to Ephesians 2: "For it is by grace that you have been saved."

"Grace is a free gift and there is nothing you can do to make God love you more or less," he said. "Sustaining grace is the kind of grace that has your back; it protects you during tempting times."

Busic also pointed to the biblical account of Paul, noting that Paul was "stronger in his weakest moment with God than in his strongest moment without God. We have to depend on God, because God is our strength."

It was a message that resonated with many students, who reported looking forward to Winter Revival as a way to reconnect with one another through worship after winter break.

"This chapel left me with a lot to think about," senior Sharon Lemire said. "I was able to connect with a lot of what Dr. Busic said today, and I feel like he impacted every student in some way."

Senior Sammie Jones agreed. "He definitely had a personable quality about him that made us all want to listen," she said. "There was a lot of laughter, but his message had its meaningful serious proponents as well." At an evening worship service held January 17, Busic began his remarks by asking "Where is God in your suffering?" He told attendees that while everyone has a past, no past is bad enough that God cannot change it.

Campus joins American Heart Association's 'Go Red Day'

Crimson was the campus color of the day February 1, when ENC participated in the American Heart Association's Go Red Day campaign to raise awareness of women's heart health.

Sponsored by the faculty and student production staff of iThink Radio – ENC's new weekly radio program – Go Red Day encouraged students, faculty, staff and other members of the campus community to wear red to raise awareness of the fact that heart disease is the nation's leading cause of death among women. To complement this message, chapel speaker Constance Rhodes discussed finding a healthy balance with a self-image reflected in God, while the cafeteria emphasized a heart-healthy lunch. Students also had an opportunity to hear from Dianne McGunigle – a national spokesperson for Go Red for Women – who met with students in the Linda Whitling Lounge to share her experiences and discuss what to do if someone is having a heart attack.

Other facts shared about heart disease in women include:

- Heart disease in women is more deadly than all forms of cancer combined
- An estimated 43 million American women are affected by heart disease
- Ninety percent of women have one or more risk factors for developing heart disease
- Women comprise only 24 percent of participants in all heart-related studies.

For more information, visit www.goredforwomen.org.

The ENC community embraces the American Heart Association's "Go Red Day" at Chapel on February 1. Constance Rhodes, founder of "Finding Balance" in Nashville, TN, spoke about wellness, body image and finding a healthy balance with food.

Faculty News

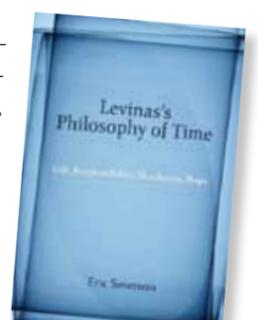

Dr. Ben Cater recently joined the ENC History Department as assistant professor of History and director of the Boston Semester Program.

In addition to teaching survey courses in American History and Government, he will teach courses on the history of colonial and modern Latin America as well as advanced seminars on a variety of topics.

A Southern California native, Cater graduated from Point Loma Nazarene University, where he studied American History and Literature. He received the A.B. Hammond Fellowship for Western American Studies to attend the University of Montana-Missoula, where he wrote a master's thesis that examined Episcopal Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle in post-Civil War Salt Lake City. Cater's research led him to pursue a Ph.D. in American History as well as a doctoral minor in Latin American Studies at the University of Utah. His dissertation explored the socioeconomic and religious dimensions of public health and medicine in Progressive Era Salt Lake City.

Dr. Eric Severson recently published a new book titled Levinas's Philosophy of Time: Gift, Responsibility, Diachrony, Hope. The book explores Emmanuel Levinas's understanding of time and its application to ethics and philosophy.

Nashville recording program hits a high note for music major

Sarah Good (09)

Chris Moy (13) spent the fall semester gaining practical experience in Nashville's music industry.

Q: What is the Contemporary Music Center program?

A: Located in Nashville, TN, the Contemporary Music Center (CMC) is a four month, off-campus study program dedicated to offering students opportunities to develop within the music industry. Students at CMC choose to focus their time and effort on one of three study tracks: Artist, Business and Technical. While everyone is active in something different, we're all unified by the common purpose of our love for music and our pursuit of knowledge in the music industry.

Q: What are the benefits of studying music in a city like Nashville?

A: One of the perks of studying at CMC is having the opportunity to work with high-end, professional equipment. Every student was able to work with gear such as the Avid Venue SC48 console, closets of various microphones and a slew of guitars and amplifiers. With all this equipment and more, we were responsible for providing production support for weekly CMC Live shows. Every week we would perform a different job on the production side of these shows, including lighting technician/designer, front-of-house (FOH) audio engineer, monitor engineer, stage patch (wiring and miking the stage), backline (instrument/amp setup and change-out), and stage hand. While I handled each of these roles, CMC eventually discovered my background in photography and I became the photographer for each show.

Q: What technical skills did you learn through the program?

A: While CMC provides a safe haven to learn about the music industry and all aspects of the concert experience, the program also enables students to learn about all that goes on in recording music of all types. Students in the Technical Track are paired with artists to create a well-produced song in weekly recording sessions. This type of work includes learning about the production stages, including preproduction, tracking, over-dubs, editing, mixing and mastering. The musicians and engineers involved in these recording projects experiment with different musical styles, including rock, pop and folk. After a month of work, these projects are submitted for review by the staff and students of CMC.

The highlight of the semester is a week-long tour, where we perform a show every night on a different college campus. After a few days of preproduction, we pack the majority of our gear onto a truck and hit the road for a week. The entire tour is run by the students, while the staff observes from a distance. To help the tour run smoothly, students on the Technical Track fall into certain roles on the production aspect for every show and use knowledge gained from past shows in order to perform well within their roles. By the end of the tour, students either love it or hate it. I loved it.

Q: What was the most enjoyable or rewarding part of the CMC experience for you?

A: Looking back on those four months, I can honestly say I loved every moment of my time at CMC. Now that I'm a graduate of the program, I've walked away well prepared for a career in the music industry, and gained a close community of friends that I love and cherish to this day. The 30 of us who participated grew so close by the end of the semester that we were inseparable. Now, as the school year draws to a close, I'm back at ENC finishing my last semester before graduation in May. I also have an opportunity awaiting me in the summer as a tour photographer for York, a folk/indie-rock band from California. From there, I'll see what the future holds now that I'm a graduate of the Contemporary Music Center!

Out of the Darkness:

Alumna walks to raise awareness of depression, suicide prevention

For most of her life, Christina Duncan (03, 07) has suffered from depression. But it wasn't until she was a junior at Eastern Nazarene College that she first sought help in dealing with the lingering trauma caused by her troubled childhood.

Christina Duncan (03, 07)

"I remembered being taken away by (the Department of Social Services) and being abused throughout my childhood and then raped in high school," said Duncan, who received her bachelor's and master's degrees in education from ENC. "I never talked about any of it, because in my family it wasn't okay to talk about our feelings. I finally started breaking down."

At the suggestion of fellow ENC student Jeremy Scott (03), Duncan sought help from ENC's Brickley Counseling Center.

"If it wasn't for the Brickley Center, I don't know if I ever would have started getting help," said Duncan, whose depression worsened in 2003, when her best friend took his own life. "At that time, I was so depressed I didn't know what to do. The Brickley Center's spiritual emphasis of God loving me helped springboard my recovery."

And while Duncan still struggles with depression, she has taken positive steps forward. In addition to serving as a Sunday school teacher and communications assistant at North Street Community Church of the Nazarene in Hingham, MA – where former classmate Jeremy Scott serves as pastor – she is preparing to travel to Washington DC in June, where she will participate in Out of the Darkness Overnight, an 18-mile walk from sunset to sunrise to raise awareness and funds for suicide prevention.

Sponsored by the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP), the walk supports research as well as a variety of prevention, education and advocacy programs, including distribution of the foundation's "More Than Sad" education program on teen depression and suicide prevention to high schools across the country.

According to AFSP, nearly 1 million people attempt suicide each year in the United States, resulting in more than 36,000 deaths. An estimated 90 percent of people who die by suicide have an underlying mental disorder such as depression, bipolar disorder or a substance abuse problem.

"I'm walking to bring the stigma of depression and suicide 'out of the darkness,' particularly among my family and friends," Duncan said. "In a way, doing this walk is helping me bring a part of my own life out of the darkness."

This will be Duncan's third Out of the Darkness walk; she previously participated in two Boston walks as part of "Center Aisle," a walk team that included Scott and several other ENC alumni who have experienced the pain and loss of depression and suicide in their lives.

"Suicide has impacted a high percentage of people in our church community throughout the years," Scott said. "The story of Judas in the Bible is one of the most tragic: a man who sought out the leaders of God's people, only to be denied their help. In these days of our society, there are so many hurting, lonely and depressed people crying out for help, and the church should be in a prime position to respond."

Dawn Haskell (06) also has walked with Duncan in previous Out of the Darkness events.

"I walk in memory of my brother, Brian, who died by suicide," she said, "and to help reduce the stigma associated with suicide and mental illness."

For more information on the walk, call 888-THE-OVERNIGHT or visit www.TheOvernight.org. If you or someone you know is in crisis or having thoughts of suicide, help is available. For more information on the risk factors and warning signs of suicide, visit www.AFSP.org.

Thanks for Giving!

Our Thank You for Giving List has moved to the Spring edition of The Christian Scholar! We are now reporting calendar year (January-December) data to make the list more user-friendly for our donors. You will notice donors are not organized by partnership levels of giving in this edition due to the 18 month date range (July 1, 2011 – December 31, 2012). We will resume using the partnership levels of giving in the list next year.

The following individuals (ENC Society members are listed in red), churches, businesses and organizations provided financial gifts to Eastern Nazarene College. We are very grateful for the generous investments of all who are listed.

The Office for Institutional Advancement strives to list all donors with accuracy and sensitivity. If you have any questions about the listings please contact the Office of Development at 866-480-2291.

Stories on the Sojourn

By Scott Turcott, Vice President for Institutional Advancement

I learned the value of a thank you from a good friend at another Christian college. While I was teaching there, he was responsible for Student Development. He would occasionally ask me to help out with various student activities, and I always found myself saying yes even when I was too busy to do so. In fact, I would even rearrange previously scheduled responsibilities when possible to lend a hand when he asked. He was engaging and fun to work with, so at first I thought that was why I said yes whenever he asked.

After I had been there a few years, I was reading through my mail – reflecting on why I had subjected myself to being a dunk tank victim at a Student Life event on a freezing cold day – when I opened a note from Todd. I had my answer. It was a thank you note, one of many I had received from him. It was then that I came to fully understand the power of a thank you. In addition to being the appropriate way to respond when someone helps you, I have found a personal thank you to be one of the most powerful motivators.

I have tried to follow my friend Todd's example and thank people with a note as much as possible, but I can't seem to find time to thank everyone I would like to, even though I have handwritten over 1,000 thank you notes in the past six months. Next to visiting with alumni and friends of the college, writing thank you notes is probably the most enjoyable aspect of what I do for ENC. As I write them, I reflect on the time spent with the person(s) I'm thanking and will often say a short prayer for them.

ENC's alumni and friends support ENC with their time, talent and treasure. Since I can't always personally thank each one, I want to say thank you to all of our alumni and friends. Thank you to those who support us with their time – whether it is helping to raise funds for scholarships by selling items at campus events or serving on the board of trustees. Thank you to those who support ENC with their talents – whether it is painting on campus or providing legal advice. Thank you to those who support ENC with their treasure – whether it is a monthly gift of $2 or a matching gift for the ENC Fund that could end up being close to $70,000.

Thank you to all of our alumni and friends for the many ways you support ENC. Will you join me in the effort to create a culture of appreciation? I believe we can make a differENCe in the world by demonstrating our appreciation. Here is a tangible way to make a difference: Write a check to the ENC Fund today! Why? Because a grateful and generous couple have agreed to match dollar for dollar, up to our goal, all that comes in for the ENC Fund between now and June 30. Your gift is an investment in our future and will bless the ministry of ENC at an important time.

I am giving thanks with a grateful heart for your friendship and support!

THANK YOU!

Class of 1950 achieves ECAS milestone

When Col. Clifford Keys (50) first took up the Every Class a Scholarship (ECAS) challenge, he had a particular goal in mind: 100 percent.

One hundred percent participation, that is. Recognizing that building the Class of 1950 scholarship would be easier with broad participation, Col. Keys set a goal of having every contactable, graduated alumnus from the Class of 1950 contribute to building this important investment in ENC's future. And countless letters, phone calls and emails later, that goal was recently reached, when the Class of 1950 became the first alumni class to achieve 100 percent participation in its scholarship! Thanks to the participation of so many alumni, the Class of 1950 Scholarship is now valued at more than $50,000 and growing!

This momentous achievement is the latest example of the success of the Every Class a Scholarship initiative, which began in 2002 when Ruth Ann (Stetson, 65) Ayres spearheaded the drive to raise $1 million in 10 years – a goal that was surpassed last summer and celebrated at the 2012 Homecoming Celebration.

Building on these milestones, the ECAS initiative shows no signs of slowing down. Already, the Class of 1957 is working toward its new goal of fully funding its second $100,000 scholarship, while the Class of 1953 is aiming to raise $60,000 before its 60th reunion this fall.

To make a donation to your class scholarship online, go to www.enc.edu and click on "Giving" to launch the secure online donation form. To set up convenient, monthly donations via credit card, call (866) 480-2291.

Lions athletes reach 1,000 points, earn CCC honors

The last week in January was an exciting time for ENC sports fans, as two basketball players each scored their 1,000th point within days of one another.

On January 29, senior Chima Ezeigbo became the 29th Men's Basketball player in ENC history to score 1,000 points. Named to the All Commonwealth Coast Conference first team, Ezeigbo also was named a CCC Player of the Week during the season.

Just four days later, senior Shardae Brown became the 10th Women's Basketball player to reach the millennial mark while racking up 13 points against Gordon College. Brown – who was named an All-CCC Honorable Mention for the second consecutive season – helped the Lions post an 11-15 overall record, finishing her career with 1,046 points and 860 rebounds.

In other hoop news, Men's Basketball Head Coach Jim Aller and freshman Jaylen Owens were named Commonwealth Coast Conference Coach of the Year and Rookie of the Year, respectively. Aller guided the Lions to their best record in 16 years as well as their first CCC Tournament appearance since the 2003-2004 season. After besting Salve Regina in the quarterfinals, the Lions fell to the Curry Colonels in the semifinals February 21.

A Raisin in the Sun highlights African American History Month

The diversity of ENC's student body was highlighted in February, when the Theatre Department presented its production of A Raisin in the Sun.

First presented on Broadway in 1959 – and later turned into a feature film starring Sidney Poitier – Lorraine Hansberry's A Raisin in the Sun recounts the story of the Youngers, an African American family seeking to escape from their South Side Chicago apartment and achieve the American Dream amid the tension and upheaval of the Civil Rights Movement.

Director Tara Brooke Watkins said A Raisin in the Sun marked ENC's first theater production to address the black experience in America.

"Half of ENC's theater majors are African American, as is a significant portion of the college's overall student population," she said, noting that February was African American History Month. "And just like the characters in the play are not fully aware of their African heritage, the cast was not fully aware of the historical struggle of black Americans. It was a teaching opportunity for all of us from the moment of the first rehearsal."

To offer a fresh take on the production, ENC presented the play in a "black box format," whereby the audience was seated on the stage along with the actors.

"The crux of the play hinges on whether this family will be able to move out of their cramped apartment," Watkins said. "The black box format brought the audience right into that tiny apartment, bringing awareness to the family's plight in a whole new way."

Joseph Asagai (Marc Pierre) promises Beneatha (Athena Horton, 13) a better life in Africa.

George Murchison (Left: Yusuf Mansaray, 15) is disturbed by Walter's (Ola Dada) over-zealous dreams.

Each performance was followed by "talk backs" – conversations between the audience and the actors.

"ENC is a richly diverse campus," Watkins continued. "We hope that this play opened a dialogue between students on campus, actors, audience members and the larger community."

NY Met Soprano performs on campus

The Music Department presented a concert by Metropolitan Opera soprano Meredith Hansen on January 25 in the Edith Cove Fine Arts Center.

Hansen – who previously taught vocal performance classes at ENC – performed songs by Samuel Barber, Sigmund Romberg and other composers from the American Songbook, as well as selections from La Bohème and Die Fledermaus with internationally renowned tenor John Daniecki. She also collaborated with Dr. Brady Millican, pianist and chairman of the ENC Music Department.

A Cohasset, MA native, Hansen has performed as a soloist across America, singing with such prestigious groups as the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Rafael Frubeck de Burgos at both Symphony Hall and Carnegie Hall. She performed the role of Musetta in La Bohème with the Cedar Rapids Opera, and made her Metropolitan Opera House debut in 2012-2013 in the role of Woglinde in Wagner's Ring Cycle.

Ted Merck of the Boston Herald called her Boston Lyric Opera performance of Antonia in Les Contes d'Hofmann "a standout."

alum News

Dawn Heckman (76) was recently named employee of the month by the Springfield, PA School District. A third grade teacher at Sabold Elementary School, she received both her bachelor's degree in Social Work and a master's degree in Education from ENC, where she also served as associate dean of students for seven years.

David Bergers (89) was recently named acting deputy director of enforcement for the Securities & Exchange Commission in Washington, DC. Previously, he served as head of the SEC's Boston regional office since 2006.

Christina Ludwick (09) was recently named head volleyball coach at Central Christian College in McPherson, KS. Prior to joining CCC, she was on the staff of Nashville's Club West, a nationally recognized club program. She also coached for two seasons at Tennessee's Ravenwood High School, where under her leadership the team won the school's first state title and became nationally ranked. At ENC, she was a four-year starter and three-year captain, earning NCAA All-Academic and All-Conference Academic honors.

Jeff Lane (98) and his wife, Kelley, were recently honored by the Boston Celtics, when the team presented the couple with its Heroes Among Us Award. Presented Feb. 10 during a home game against the Denver Nuggets, the award recognized the Lanes' efforts as foster and adoptive parents. The couple will also be honored at a reception to be held later this year at the state capitol.

Jane (Barbour, 34) Lockwood passed away Nov. 25, 2012 at the age of 99. Born in Boston and raised in Wisconsin, she returned to Massachusetts in 1930 to attend Eastern Nazarene College, where she met her future husband Raymond Lockwood (34). The Lockwoods served churches in Maine, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. They later returned to Wollaston, where all four of their children attended ENC and Mrs. Lockwood served as secretary to the academic dean. She is survived by her four children – Nancy (Lockwood, 60) Chambers, Patricia (Lockwood, 63) Kyprides, Stanton Lockwood (67) and Deborah Lockwood (69), three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. [Note: Mrs. Lockwood's reflections on the Class of 1934's 60th reunion were published in the Spring 2012 issue of The Christian Scholar. Douglas Everett Fisk (41) passed away Feb. 16, 2013 at Lakeview Village in Lenexa, KS. Born in 1919 in Providence, RI, he graduated from Eastern Nazarene College with a degree in Chemistry, then did graduate work at MIT. During the war, he worked for Hercules Powder Co. in several states, then transferred to the BF Goodrich Chemical Co. in 1947 before retiring in 1979. He was active in his local church as worship leader and tenor soloist and had a vital interest in missions. He is survived by Rachel, his wife of 70 years.

John F. Bricker (51) passed away Aug. 30, 2012 at the age of 83 in Mt. Vernon, OH. A Pennsylvania native, he graduated from both ENC and the University of Pittsburgh. He taught in the Mount Lebanon, PA schools for 16 years before moving to Canton, OH to teach education and supervise student teachers at Malone University. He is survived by his wife Becky.

Rev. Robert W. Sutton (51) died Jan. 30, 2013 at the age of 85. A pastor for 50 years, he served churches in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey and New York. He is survived by his wife, Joyce.

Former Business Department Chair Howard Williams passed away Oct. 20, 2012. A World War II veteran, Prof. Williams graduated from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill and received his MBA from Harvard Business School. He was an executive for New England Mutual Life Insurance for 25 years before beginning a second career in academia. He is survived by his wife Frankie.

Former Computer Science professor Jacob P. Reger passed away Nov. 25, 2012. He is survived by his wife of 52 years, Charlene; son Jeff Reger (86), daughter-in-law Elma (Malcolm, 86) Reger, and daughter Janet Cunningham. "As a colleague, Jake Reger was an inspiration in my teaching," Dr. Lowell Hall said. "His spirit lives on in many of us, both faculty and alumni."

Bryan E. Killen (09) of Felton, DE, passed away on Saturday, March 16, 2013 after a battle with cancer. At ENC, Bryan was a member of the A Cappella Choir and Chamber Singers, Jump Drama Ministries, performed in musicals, and was known for his breakfast-making skills in the cafeteria. He is survived by his parents, Bobby E. and Trudy Killen of Felton; sisters, Christy L. Bakas of Greenwood, and Kimberly J. Killen of Felton, DE.

Meet Richard Simons, MD

Town: Norwich, VT

Graduation Year: 1977

Major: Chemistry

Q: What is your current title/occupation and what are your major duties/responsibilities in this role?

A: I currently serve as the senior associate dean for medical education at the Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth in Hanover, NH, and the associate vice president for health affairs at Dartmouth College. In this capacity, I have oversight for medical education at the medical school, residency education for Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center, and continuing medical education for the Dartmouth Hitchcock Health System. As an internist, I also see patients at the Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center in Lebanon, NH. My responsibilities include providing direction and leadership of the medical school curriculum, various offices and centers that support the medical school curriculum, providing oversight of the 45 residency and fellowship programs at Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center, and responsibility for the overall direction and quality of its continuing medical education programs.

Q: How did you reach this point in your career?

A: Prior to assuming my current role at Dartmouth in June 2012, I spent 28 years at the Penn. State College of Medicine in Hershey, PA. From 2005-2012, I served as the vice dean for educational affairs at Penn. State College of Medicine, where I provided the leadership of medical education for the medical school and graduate medical education for Penn. State's Hershey Medical Center. During my time there, I served in many educational leadership roles including the director of the Medicine Clerkship, director of the Internal Medicine Residency Program, associate dean for medical education, and the designated institutional official for graduate medical education. I also was active caring for patients in the ambulatory and inpatient setting as a general internist. I was also very active in many national professional organizations, having served on committees of the National Board of Medical Examiners, the American Board of Internal Medicine, Residency Review Committee for Internal Medicine, American College of Physicians, the Association of Program Directors in Internal Medicine and the Clerkship Directors of Internal Medicine.

Q: Are there any projects, assignments or accomplishments during your career that were particularly meaningful to you?

A: I have enjoyed many facets of my work over the years. Working with students and residents on a daily basis and being able to influence their career path and contribute to their professional development is probably the most rewarding part of my job. It inspires me to do my best and to keep up with my own professional education. I have also enjoyed the challenges of redesigning and modernizing the medical school curriculum, preparing the medical school for accreditation visits and also assisting students and residents with personal and professional challenges. I have always found great satisfaction and enjoyment in caring for patients; often I have students and residents working with me, which makes for a fulfilling and challenging experience.

It has been very gratifying from a professional perspective to have been involved in numerous professional organizations and to have had the honor of serving in several leadership roles. I served as governor of the Pennsylvania American College of Physicians, chair of the Internal Medicine Committee for Step 2 of the United States Medical Licensing Examination, president of the Clerkship Directors of Internal Medicine, and member of the Residency Review Committee for Internal Medicine. I also was active as a board member of the University of Michigan's Medical Center Alumni Society and served as its president for a one-year term. In 2010, I received the Edith J. Levit Award for Distinguished Service from the National Board of Medical Examiners and in April of 2012, I was elected as a master in the American College of Physicians – the professional organization's highest honor. The opportunity to participate in national policy and strategic decisions for the medical education community has been very exciting.

Q: What is the most rewarding part of your job? The most challenging?

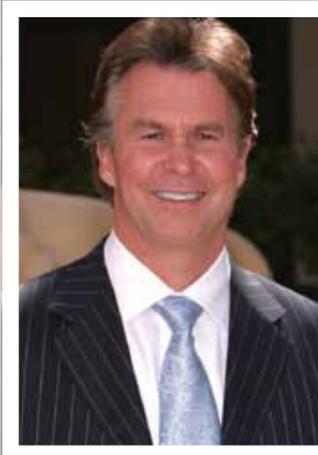

A: The opportunity to have a major influence on the professional and personal development of our nation's doctors has been very rewarding. Equally, the opportunity to provide care for patients and families has provided much personal and professional satisfaction. I treasure the many long-term relationships I have had with patients over many years. I believe the most challenging aspect of my work is just balancing the various components inherent in my current role. Fortunately, I have been able to recruit many wonderful, talented associate deans and directors who are part of my educational leadership team. Like many things in life, medical educational leadership is a team sport and I have been privileged to mentor many of these individuals over the years.

Q: How did your ENC education prepare you for your chosen field?

A: I am most indebted to the wonderful, rich liberal arts education I received at ENC. Not only did I receive first-rate instruction in the Chemistry and Biology courses, but I also benefited from the broad-based liberal arts approach of education. I am grateful for the perspective I gained through the courses such as Western Heritage, Great Philosophical and Religious Ideas, Psychology, Living Issues, Literature and Art and Biblical History, to name a few. These courses provided me with the insight and perspective needed to be successful in medical school, residency and my day-to-day interactions with individuals – colleagues, patients and students. My experience at ENC was that my course work was rigorous, which prepared me very well for the demands of medical school. I was able to develop good study habits and discipline during my time at ENC, so the transition to medical school was not as overwhelming as it was for many of my classmates. And most importantly, having a Christ-centered approach to all that we do in life was also something that was instilled in me as a student at ENC. I will always be indebted to ENC for the excellent education I received as well as for the faculty who took time to invest in me.

Q: Were there any ENC faculty who made a particular impact on you?

A: Two individuals stand out in my mind: Lowell Hall, who was my Chemistry professor, and Glenn Keys, my Pre-Med advisor. Both of these men were outstanding teachers and set high expectations for students. Yet, they were caring and took an interest in me and my development. I saw how they lived their life: devoted not only to their work, but their families, the church and Christ. I have been privileged to maintain a relationship with both Dr. Hall and Professor Keys over many years. They continue to be an inspiration to me. I am so fortunate I had the opportunity to have these wonderful men as teachers and mentors.
